This is a civil action filed pro se by a state prison inmate. Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §636(b)(1), and District of South Carolina Local Civil Rule 73.02(B)(2)(e), this magistrate judge is authorized to review all pretrial matters in such pro se cases and to submit findings and recommendations to the District Court. See 28 U.S.C. § § 1915(e); 1915A (as soon as possible after docketing, district courts should review prisoner cases to determine whether they are subject to summary dismissal).

BACKGROUND

Chavis Laranzo Cox (“Plaintiff”) alleges that his federal constitutional rights were violated in connection with a gassing incident that took place at Lee Correctional Institution on November 28, 2011. According to Plaintiff, he was rendered unconscious in his cell as a result of an “anxiety attack,” but Defendant Davis, a corrections officer at Lee, refused to believe that he wasn’t faking and sprayed gas into Plaintiff’s cell to try to force him to get up. When he still was unable to get up despite being exposed to the gas, Defendant Davis had Plaintiff taken to medical in a wheelchair and then he was put in a holding cell. Although named as Defendants, there is no mention of either Defendant Oberman or Padula anywhere in the Complaint. There is nothing in Plaintiff’s filings from which personal involvement by or personal knowledge of either of these Defendant in the gassing incident. Instead, it appears that they were added as parties because they are the warden and assistant warden at Lee.

INITIAL REVIEW

Under established local procedure in this judicial district, a careful review has been made of Plaintiff's pro se Complaint filed in this case. This review has been conducted pursuant to the procedural provisions of 28 U.S.C. § § 1915, 1915A, and the Prison Litigation Reform Act of 1996, and in light of the following precedents: Denton v. Hernandez, 504 U.S. 25 (1992); Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 324-25 (1989); Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519 (1972); Nasim v. Warden, Md. House of Corr., 64 F.3d 951 (4th Cir. 1995)(en banc); Todd v. Baskerville, 712 F.2d 70 (4th Cir. 1983); Boyce v. Alizaduh, 595 F.2d 948 (4th Cir. 1979).

Pro se complaints are held to a less stringent standard than those drafted by attorneys, Gordon v. Leeke, 574 F.2d 1147, 1151 (4th Cir. 1978), and a federal district court is charged with liberally construing a complaint filed by a pro se litigant to allow the development of a potentially meritorious case. Erickson v. Pardus, 551 U.S. 89 (2007). When a federal court is evaluating a pro se complaint, the plaintiff's allegations are assumed to be true. De'Lonta v. Angelone, 330 F.3d 630, 630n.1 (4th Cir. 2003). Nevertheless, the requirement of liberal construction does not mean that this court can ignore a clear failure in the pleading to allege facts which set forth a claim currently cognizable in a federal district court. Weller v. Dep't of Soc. Servs., 901 F.2d 387 (4th Cir. 1990). However, even under this less stringent standard, the Complaint filed in this case is subject to partial summary dismissal under the provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2)(B).

DISCUSSION

The Complaint filed in this case should be partial dismissed as to Defendants Oberman and Padula because there are, generally, no § 1983 claims based only on vicarious liability, Monell v. N.Y. City Dep't of Soc. Servs., 436 U.S. 658, 691 (1978), and there are no allegations at all against these two Defendants. Their names are not mentioned anywhere in the Complaint.

RECOMMENDATION

Accordingly, it is recommended that the District Court partially dismiss the Complaint in this case without prejudice as to Defendants Obeman and Padula. See Boyce v. Alizaduh; Todd v. Baskerville, 712 F.2d at 74; see also 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2)(B); 28 U.S.C. § 1915A (as soon as possible after docketing, district courts should review prisoner cases to determine whether they are subject to summary dismissal). The Complaint should be served on Defendant Davis.

Plaintiff's attention is directed to the important notice on the next page.
